I would just try some new plugs.... Not much to a tune up on a outboard. Unless the carb is gummed up. Check you fuel line to make sure you are getting a good prime before you try to start it.

Let me know about the plugs they are hard to get too on that motor. I forget the part# so warn me so I have some if you are going to stop by.

Let me know

The lower plug is almost impossible to get to. I had you do it last year, but since it runs okay, maybe I'll wait until haul-out and have a couple of things looked at to be ready to splash her early next spring.
